Microdata for Ratings

Syntax

Examples

span <a mode="pre" href="../../../attribut

The default scale with a range from 1 to 5 is used, where 5 is the best rating, since the best rating is not explicitly specified with an `itemscope="best"` property.

img <a mode="pre" href="../../../attribut

Again, the default scale with a range from 1 to 5 is used, where 5 is the best rating, since the best rating is not explicitly specified with an `itemscope="best"` property.

section <a mode="pre" href="../../../at
  <a mode="pre" href="../../../attributes/microdata-item-attributes.html#item-type-attribu
  h1 <a mode="pre" href="../../../att
  <ul>
    <li> ...</li>
    ...
  </ul>
</section>

Since the value of the rating in the `<h1> heading tag` applies to all of the ` list items` in the `section`, the section is a microdata item that gets its value from the `itemprop="value"` attribute on the `heading tag`. As above, the default scale with a range from 1 to 5 is used, where 5 is the best rating.

span <a mode="pre" href="../../../attribut
  <a mode="pre" href="../../../attributes/microdata-item-attributes.html#item-type-attribu
  span span <a mode="pre" href="...

In this example, the `rating` microdata item has a second `itemprop="best"` property indicating that the range of ratings is from 1 to 10, with 10 being the best rating.
